Owing to the late arrival of Saturday's ships, an unusually large number of immigrants were obliged to remain at Ellis island over Saturday night and to spend their Christmas morning there. The first surprise came at breakfast. On the long tables were a large number of little four-foot-high Christmas trees. All the children received toys and candy, and the women fruit and candy, and the men pipes and tobacco, cigars or cigarettes.

The positive way in which the telegram was worded, that the description tallied with that of Miss Kempter, as to dental work, height and color of hair, has raised the hopes of the officers that they will now have something tangible to work upon.

GROWING UP

There's something the matter with the child that fails to grow up. A child that grows up too much, however, without proper filling out of flesh, is almost as badly off. Nothing will help these pale, thin "weedy" children like Scott's Emulsion. It supplies the rounding out of flesh and the rich inward nourishment of blood and vital organs which insures rapid growth a healthy and uniform development.

Only One American Industry

New York, Dec. 25.-James Langerman, ormerly United States vice consul general at Tangier, Morocco, is in New York on his way to report to the sultan of Morocco, whose personal representative he was at the St. Louis exposition.

Speaking tonight of Morocco and its desire for American trade, Mr. Langerman said:

"Never before was such an opportunity presented to American industries to secure a foothold in Morocco. It seems strange, but it is a fact nevertheless, that in this country, where about 16,000,000 people live, there is but one big American industry doing business, and that is the Standard Oil company.

"The sultan, and, in fact, all his subjects, want to trade with Americans. They realize that the American people in business will treat them fairly and will not try to seize the country. I know personally that the sultan is one of the most ardent admirers of President Roosevelt. It is impossible for French troops to make any progress in Morocco, especially at this time of the year. They have a difficult task before them. It is now the rainy season. It is impossible for them rainy season. It is impossible for them to transport troops, as there are no highways. Ferrying is their most modern method of crossing rivers. There is not a telegraph or telephone line or railway in the country."

Mr. Langerman recently discussed the Moroccan situation with the president, but he refused to say whether he visited President. Roosevelt on any particular mission.
